before.

The cyclone was an ill wind surely enough, but it gave photographers Waterman and Straight a chance to reap a nice little harvest. They were out early Thursday morning with their cameras and secured some very fine views, about fifty in all; and the sale of these has been enormous, and will continue to be for a long time.

There were some and perhaps several.